

TO BUILD CHURCH IN WASHINGTON

Board Instructs Commission to Proceed With Construction.

FUNDS ARE NOW ALMOST IN SIGHT

Bishop Kilgo, in Telling Address, Deprecates Giving to Outside Causes to Neglect of Building—Board Makes Appropriations for Extension Work.

Speedy consummation of the hopes of Southern Methodism for a church building in the city of Washington, which will fitly express, in beauty and dignity, the position of the church in the life of the nation, may be expected as the result of the action yesterday of the Board of Church Extension of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. In session in this city, the board, which in its resolution directing the beginning of the work will be speedily complied with. This statement was made by Rev. George S. Sexton, secretary of the General Conference committee on a Washington report, representative of the church, who, overjoyed at the approaching completion of his plans, said to The Times-Dispatch that at the next annual meeting of the board it will be reported that construction is under way.

"The agitation of this enterprise," said the board's committee in its report, which was unanimously adopted, "has now reached a stage which calls for an aggressive plan of concerted action upon the part of this board. It is of the utmost importance that actual work upon the building be commenced before the next annual meeting of the board. This is indicated by the needs of the Mount Vernon Place Church, and is also demanded by the exigencies of the canvass for money." Therefore, the committee recommended: "That the work of building be begun by the commission as soon as it has secured $125,000 in available subscriptions, and when the Mount Vernon Place Church has secured at least $50,000 in addition to the value of the present church property ($50,000), and the subscription of the Baltimore Conference shall have reached two-thirds of the $25,000 promised by that body; provided that no contract shall be let until the means are in hand to meet it, so that no debt shall at any time be incurred beyond the resources available to meet it."

Dr. Sexton says with glad that he has in sight the sum of $197,857.50. This is made up of the subscriptions secured in the four years since the project was started, with the Baltimore Conference pledge, the General Conference plan of $15,000 a year for four years, provided for in church extension assessment, and the value of the Mount Vernon Place Church property and pledges from that church. The Rev. W. J. Bryan, Wilson, representative of the church, said that the Mount Vernon Place Church is to take the place of the Mount Vernon Place edifice.

In the report of the General Conference committee, it was urged that there be no further delay, which discourages its friends and discredits us as a church. It is not to be thought of for that would mean a loss of money and damage to our whole connection."

So within a year or two a $275,000 church building will rear its head at the national capital, comporting with the governmental structures which surround it, and showing the visitors from all states and all countries what Southern Methodism will and can do.

A notable address. It was regarded as fitting that following this positive action on the part of the church extension board, an address of encouragement, in its vigor and notable for its plain speaking, should be delivered upon the subject of the Washington church by Bishop J. C. Kilgo, of North Carolina. This was done last night at Centenary Church, the seat of the board's meetings.

"The talkers first of the tendency of the age to reduce to a mere form of words the things of God, and to make of the past few years in all kinds of structures. Then he talked of less tangible things, such as the political structure. 'We have outgrown our fathers politically,' he said, 'and we must rebuild.'"

"We give to young men's Christian Association enterprises, to Baraca enterprises, to Philanthropic enterprises. These things feed on our liberality, flesh our pockets and leave us with a shadow. I am not now discussing the value of these things, but I am protesting against the spirit which would give $1,500 for a Y. M. C. A. gymnasium and withhold $50 for a Sunday school room."

URGES REVISION

Douglas Wants Ten Commandments Restored to Original Form.

Washington, April 28.—(Revise the Ten Commandments.)—The Rev. George A. Douglas, D. D., canon of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, New York, in speaking at the twenty-fourth annual conference of the Episcopal Church on "The Need for Prayer-Book Revision to Meet Present-Day Conditions," urged the restoration of the original and shorter form.

"Let us have the courage," he said, "to restore our prayer-book version of the Ten Commandments to what scholars are pretty generally agreed was the original and shorter form."

He said that with prayer-book revision in line with the movement for bettering the Roman, Greek and Anglican churches, altitudes must be able to come together in public worship. He regarded the present Book of Common Prayer as unsuitable for "working people and socialists" who have been attracted to the "Christian churches."

Rev. Henry C. Gimenez, D. D., of Haddonfield, N. J., opposed revision pending careful study by an international council representing all the branches of the Anglican church. Rev. Percy S. Grant, D. D., of New York, urged prompt action in shortening the church service.

Rev. Cyrus Townsend Brady, D. D., of Kansas City, Mo., declared that he would oppose any revision which would take away anything from the ancient truth or the beauty of the prayer-book.

Other speakers were Rev. Charles Fisher, of Baltimore, and Rev. D. W. Howard, of Norfolk, Va. The convention closed to-day.

PRISONER STICKS TO TALE OF CRIMES

McManigal Refuses to Repudiate His "Dynamite" Confession.

LAWYERS WILL NOT DEFEND HIM

Attorney for Accused McNamara Brothers Seeks to Get Different Story From Him, but Fails. More Sensational Developments Are Expected in Shape of Arrests.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 28.—Although it has been all but certain for some time without any definite details being known, that a confession had been made in the dynamite conspiracy case, all doubt that important progress along that line had been made was removed by Orrie E. McManigal himself to-day.

He declined to see Attorney Job Harriman, former Socialist candidate for Vice-President, and counsel for the McNamara brothers, the alleged confederates of McManigal.

District Attorney Fredericks said that the prisoner would see none of the lawyers associated with the defense, and McManigal later confirmed this personally to Harriman at the jail.

Harriman went to the prison expressly to give McManigal an opportunity to repeat the declaration the accused dynamite maker made yesterday to Attorney O. N. Hilton that he had not made a confession and would make none.

Instead, to his questions, the lawyers received to-day replies very different. These replies caused him to declare, upon emerging from the sheriff's office that John J. McNamara and his brother, James W., are now in the hands of the law.

Furthermore, the only visitors McManigal receives now are men from the district attorney's office, Sheriff Hammel and operatives of the detective agency that rounded up the alleged conspirators in the East.

Suggestions that immunity had been extended to McManigal brought denials from the district attorney, who said that no promises had been made to the prisoner.

Sensational developments are expected at any time in the shape of additional arrests.

Do Not Know McManigal.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 28.—Labor leaders here say they know nothing of Orrie McManigal, who is said to have confessed at Los Angeles to the dynamiting of the iron ore conveyor at North Randall on March 25, ever having been here. Charles Smith, business manager of the Structural Iron Workers' Union, to-day said that he had never seen McManigal. The latter's name could not be found on any of a dozen hotel registers of that date.

AT EXECUTORS' MERCY

Mrs. Burke Roche Will Not Have Free Hand With Father's Millions.

New York, April 28.—Mrs. Frances Ellen Burke Roche, daughter of Frank Work, who died recently, is left at the mercy of her father's executors under the terms of his will, filed to-day for the probate. Through fifteen codicils the millionaire voiced his disapproval of her matrimonial career.

Early codicils, after her separation from James J. Burke Roche, directed that she be given $250,000 a year on condition that she have no further dealings with him and remain away from England during his lifetime. They provide also that she shall not inherit a penny of the Work millions.

After a time Mrs. Burke Roche's name was coupled with that of Aurel Batonyi, the whip, a codicil was added threatening to reduce her bequest to $12,000 a year unless she relinquish interest in horses and horse shows.

Later, Mr. Work relented and increased his daughter's bequest to $50,000 a year. A codicil appended after her marriage to the whip revokes all provisions in his will conferring any interest in his property on Mrs. Burke Roche, and another directs the executors to provide for her support if she should separate from Batonyi.

To Mrs. Burke Roche's three children is left the residuary estate conditional upon their becoming American citizens, eschewing all relations with their father and adopting the name of Work.

Mrs. Peter Cooper Hewitt, the oldest daughter, is to receive a yearly allowance of $50,000 during her lifetime. The value of the estate is not given.

WOULD MEAN RUIN

Morgan Loan Fortifies Disaster to People of Honduras.

New Orleans, La., April 28.—Declaring that the consummation of the American-Honduran convention, embracing the Morgan loan, would mean financial ruin to Honduras, Juan Paredes, Minister of Honduras, gave to the press to-night a statement in which he repudiated the negotiations and appealed to the American public to investigate the proposal.

Senator Paredes had charge of the diplomatic negotiations on behalf of Honduras. "The American people have been the mistaken idea," said Senator Paredes, "that the people of Honduras are anxious to negotiate the Morgan loan. Nothing could be further from the truth. Notwithstanding the opposition, the Honduran Congress and the United States government has insisted that the deal be put through."

Under an arrangement which the Honduran government had effected in Europe months before the State Department at Washington took up the matter, the entire indebtedness would have been disposed of by a total payment of $2,000,000 in yearly annual instalments.

Arguments Suspended

Washington, D. C., April 28.—Argument of cases was suspended to-day in the Supreme Court of the United States in order to permit the court to hear the case of the United States vs. the Mexican government, and their own motion came in for disapproval because of his declared inaction.

Spaniards Aroused.

Mexico City, April 28.—Keenly aroused by the assassination of six of their countrymen in the case of Alencio by rebels, Spaniards of the capital and of other towns in the republic are joining in protest to their government. To-day the Spanish minister acting upon representations made to him by General Reyes in Mexico, again called the attention of the foreign office to the destruction of Spanish property. This was the raiding of the hacienda of Illescas, in the State of San Luis Potosi. A party of fifty men reported to have sacked the hacienda, destroyed the books and attacked the employees with machetes.

At noon the members of the Spanish casino here held a special meeting to discuss the assassination of the men of the Alencio hacienda. It was decided to bring the bodies of the six men here and inter them in the Spanish cemetery, erecting in their honor a monument.

This afternoon a circular signed by a number of Spaniards was distributed in the streets. In this there was a demand for the Mexican government, and their own motion came in for disapproval because of his declared inaction.

Spaniards in Apizaco have sent direct to the King of Spain an appeal for protection.

They thought the signing of the armistice at Juarez might have the effect of lessening the activities of the rebels in other parts of the republic, but instead a summary of the week's campaign would show perhaps an increase in the number of rebels and a wider area of disturbance.

To-day it is reported that the number of rebels operating in one section of the State of Puebla is not less than 5,000, and from a different part of the State comes the news that a band of 600 demanded the surrender of the town of Tehuacan.

The town is garrisoned by 200 soldiers, under General Juan R. Hernandez, who replied that he would not surrender, and his troops are now awaiting the attack.

Explanation Demanded.

Washington, April 28.—The reported declaration of Ramon Corral, Vice-President of Mexico, that Americans were fomenting trouble in his country in order to force intervention, has caused the disfavor of the United States government. The State Department has called the matter to the attention of Mexico in order to establish officially whether the interview with the Vice-President, in which the statements excerpted to are said to have been made, was authentic, as published in Mexico City. The question will be taken up by Ambassador Wilson, at Mexico City, to whom the department telegraphed late to-day a copy of an official statement which it had issued unequivocally disapproving the alleged utterance. EL PASO PLACE OF PEACE MEETING

Government Selects Commission to Treat With Insurrecto General—Conference Will Be Held Between Camp and Juarez—Washington Demands Explanation.

El Paso, Tex., April 28.—The selection of El Paso as the place for holding the formal peace conference and the naming of Judge Francisco Carbajal, of the Mexican Supreme Court, as the Federal commissioner, were important developments in the peace situation to-day.

Judge Carbajal is known to Madero by reputation only, but the insurrecto leader considers the appointment as satisfactory.

The government commissioners left Mexico City last night, but whether he is traveling via Eagle Pass or Laredo was not stated. General Navarro's letter to Madero follows:

"I have been instructed by my government that the government accedes to your wishes both regard to the meeting place of the peace commissioners, to-wit: On the Mexican side of the dam lying between the city of Juarez and your camp. I am also instructed to inform you that the commissioner who represents the government is Judge Francisco Carbajal, a jurist of the highest attainments and considered a man of integrity and independence of character. He is about forty-five years old."

May Appoint More Than One.

General Madero, it is reported, may appoint more than one commissioner to represent him. It is regarded as certain that Dr. Vasquez Gomez will be a member of the commission, as Madero trusts him implicitly.

Don Francisco Moya, who has played an important part in the negotiations, is at the present promising situation, left here to-day for Mexico City.

The return of General Reyes to Mexico makes it necessary for the insurrectos to insist that President Diaz shall give the rebels stronger guarantees of security and liberty than hitherto offered, according to a statement given out by Provisional President Madero to-day. Madero said:

"We cannot but view with distrust the order which brings back to our country one who cannot further peace negotiations, but in whom there are elements of danger to those negotiations."

ECHO OF OLD SENSATION

Harry S. Brencley and His Wife Return From Europe.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] S. Brencley and his wife, formerly Edna Young, an heiress of Richmond, who at the time of her elopement with him on December 7, 1907, was still the wife of Alfred Elliott Dieterich, son of one of the Standard Oil group of millionaires, came back to their first home on the Mountairia for their first home since society was given a thrill over the stories of their flight. The woman, who left her husband, her girl baby and millions for the horseman who had driven his way into close touch with the "red," had nothing to say when she left the ship at New York.

Brencley came back with the mere statement that he hoped the papers would treat him more kindly than they had when he went away in 1907. With the rich wife of a rich man, under the ship's names of "Mr. and Mrs. H. Baker."

New York society was shocked during the latter part of December, 1907, when it became known that Mrs. Dieterich had eloped. It was known that she had gone to the Hotel Chelsea in West Twenty-third Street, about December 2, with a woman who registered as "Miss Warren," and that Brencley and herself were registered at the hotel as "Mr. and Mrs. H. Baker." Then, under the same name, they took passage on the Bluecher, of the Western American Line, which sailed December 7.

For days the young husband denied that his wife had eloped. Then he faced the situation with dignity, and proceeded to get a divorce. The papers were presented to Justice McCall, in the Supreme Court, April 23, 1908. Immediately after the signing of the final decree Mrs. Dieterich married Brencley.

Attorneys representing the State of Minnesota, in the Wells-Fargo Company have locked horns with the express company in the evidence. The Wells-Fargo Company admitted yesterday that its capitalization was $5,000,000 at the time of the amalgamation with the Western concerns. At that time, it was said, a bonus of $2,000,000 in stock was issued to the Southern Pacific Railway Company in consideration of the contract for hauling express parcels.

For sixteen years dividends of 10 per cent. were paid on $8,000,000. In 1909, with an enormous surplus in its treasury, a dividend of 3 1/2 per cent. was declared, according to the evidence, 10 per cent. payable in cash to stockholders.
